Si-o-se-pol (The Bridge of 33 Arches), Isfahan, Iran

Si-o-se-pol, also known as the Allahverdi Khan Bridge, is one of the most famous historical bridges in Isfahan, Iran. It was commissioned by Shah Abbas I of the Safavid dynasty and built between 1599 and 1602 under the supervision of his chancellor, Allahverdi Khan. The bridge is made of bricks, is 295 meters long, and features 33 arches, giving it its popular name. Si-o-se-pol is not only an architectural masterpiece of Safavid engineering but also a cultural symbol, often associated with gatherings, poetry readings, and celebrations throughout history.

ASPIRE HOUSE

Aspire House, located in Doha's Aspire Park, is a public art installation by Iraqi artist Mehdi Moutashar and design by DAZZ Studio. The structure was built using high-quality brown and blue-glazed bricks from Saco. It evokes traditional architectural elements such as thresholds, fountains, and courtyards, symbolizing the idea of home, shelter, and cultural continuity.

Sheikh Lotfollah Mosque, Isfahan, Iran

Sheikh Lotfollah Mosque is a stunning example of Safavid-era architecture, located on the eastern side of Naqsh-e Jahan Square in Isfahan, Iran. It was built between 1603 and 1619 by order of Shah Abbas I and dedicated to Sheikh Lotfollah, a prominent Lebanese Shiite scholar. Unlike most mosques, it has no minarets or courtyard, as it was intended to be a private place of worship for the royal family. The mosque is famous for its exquisite tilework, especially the cream colored dome that changes hues throughout the day.
